4. ER-2020 D.Pharm Syllabus – An Overview

The ER-2020 D.Pharm Syllabus has the following structure in every course. Though the theory and practical courses are not mutually exclusive, as per the Regulations, the theory and practical are to be considered as individual courses.

Scope: These are broader statements on the purpose of the course in the curriculum, key contents of the course that will contribute to the specific knowledge and or skill developments. The teacher is expected to orient the students about the scope of the particular course at the beginning and intermittently.

Course Objectives: The course objectives describe the key topics that are intended by the teacher to be covered in the course. In general, these are more specific than the scope and broader than the course outcomes. The teacher is expected to discuss the objectives of the course with the students and break-down the course objectives into micro levels as objectives of a specific topic / objectives of a specific lecture, etc. Such an exercise shall make the students to understand the significance of the course / topic / lecture and enhance their attention on the course / topic / lecture.

Course Outcomes: The course outcomes are more specific than the course objectives describe that describe the abilities of the students to perform/act, upon successful completion of the course. Hence, conventionally the course outcomes are described with verbs that are measurable or observable actions. The teacher is expected to describe the desired outcomes of the particular course, so that the students shall understand the various assessment criteria, modalities, and parameters. This also serves as a broader guideline for the teachers for preparing the assessment plan. A well-structured assessment plan associated with the course outcomes shall enable to mapping with the professional competencies and their attainment levels that are attributed to the program outcomes.

Theory Courses: The theory courses basically provide concepts and explain the relationships between the concepts. Understanding of the theoretical courses enable the students to identify the problems in real life situation and make a plan for addressing such problems. Also, the theory course helps to understand what is not known and thus is the tool for accumulation of knowledge. The syllabus of the theory courses has been systematically and logically described as different chapters and the minimum number of hours to be spent on teaching are mentioned chapter wise and course wise. The teachers shall further distribute the total hours of any given chapter among the sub-topics as required by the subject matter.

Practical Courses: The practical courses are designed for applying the theoretical knowledge in the given experimental / simulated conditions. The practical courses deepen the understanding of theories, develop the skills, hone professional competencies, provide opportunities to observe, think and analyse problem solving methods. Further, they help to gain experience with the real things in practice. The teachers shall train the students in actual / simulated practical conditions.

Tutorials: The purpose of the tutorial hour is typically to engage the students in smaller groups in order to pay a closer attention on their learning process. This is an opportunity for the students to complete their assignments, develop specific skills, discuss any problems in the study topics in a less formal way. During the tutorial hour, the students shall exchange their ideas within the small group, and learn to accept constructive criticism and listen to others. Also, the tutorial hour enables the teachers to closely monitor the progress of the individual student and provide additional academic support to individuals, if necessary.

Assignments: The purpose the assignments are to encourage the students for self-directed learning. Further, the assignments will provoke critical thinking, enhance the skills such as literature search, data mining, data interpretation, report formatting, time-management, and written communication. This is also a mode of self-assessment for the student about the level of understanding of the concepts of a particular course. The teachers shall apply their knowledge and wisdom in choosing the assignment topics at a micro level in alignment with the topics given in the syllabus. The assignments shall be evaluated against a set of criteria. A typical format for the assessment of an assignment is given in Appendix-1.

Field Visits: The purpose of field visits is to provide a real-world experience to the students. The field visits will help them to realize that what they learn within the walls of the classroom / laboratory can help them solve the problems they see in the world around them. Also, this is helpful to the teachers to widen their horizons of knowledge and broadening the scope of the syllabus. Every student shall submit a report describing their objectives, experience, learning points, etc. pertaining to the field trip, in the typical format given in Appendix-2.

Recommended Books: For each course, a list of recommended books is given in the syllabus. The list shall be considered as an important and common resource for the teaching-learning process, but not the complete list. It is always encouraged to use the latest edition of the books specified. Further, the teachers and students are encouraged to explore more primary, secondary, and tertiary resources as required.

Practical Training: The goal of the practical training for the students is to provide a real-time, supervised experience on the professional tasks emphasised in their course of study. Further, it helps them to apply their acquired knowledge and skills in the professional working environment. The practical training intensively prepares the students with adequate competencies and qualifications required for the career opportunity in the future.

Thus, the ER 2020 D.Pharm syllabus is designed to nurture the students in all the three domains of Bloom's Taxonomy viz. cognitive (knowledge), affective (attitude) and psychomotor (skills). Further, it also provides ample of scope to the students for different learning styles viz. visual, auditory and kinaesthetic, i.e., 'see, hear and do'.

The summary of the curriculum, courses and other activities and their metrics across the ER-2020 D.Pharm program (Part I, II & III) are given here.

QUESTION PAPER SETTING, MAPPING, EVALUATION AND APPROVAL GUIDELINES

01. Question paper setting

- A teacher should prepare two sets of question paper for theory and one set for practical sessional examination for his/her course after receiving notice from exam department.
- If more than two teachers are handling a theory course, each of them should prepare one set of question paper based on a common prescribed syllabus.
- The teachers handling different batches of a practical course should set question papers separately for respective batch.
- The question papers must cover the syllabus prescribed for the sessional exam time to time by the concerned teacher. Questions outside the prescribed syllabus should be strictly avoided.
- The question paper must follow the pattern and marking scheme prescribed by regulatory bodies like PCI and SUK.
- The question paper must contain the correct details of exam viz, Title, Academic year, term, day & date, time, total marks etc.
- The question must start with an action verb as per the Blooms taxonomy.
- The questions should be free from technical, grammatical & typographical errors
- The paper setter should strictly employ use of standard & approved abbreviations; clarity in diagrams, flow charts etc if any.
- Appropriate proportion of difficulty level questions must be included in the question papers.
- Also, the question should match the expected percentage of cognitive domain as per the ratio decided by exam department for each class.

02. Question paper mapping

- The teacher has to map each question with the Course Outcomes (CO's) of his/her course.
- Besides, the question paper should be linked with the cognitive domain (Bloom's level) to which the question belongs and percentage of questions in each cognitive domain should be calculated.
- The format for mapping will be provided by exam department.

03. Question paper evaluation and approval

- Before commencement of examination, Sessional question papers of all subjects (Theory & Practical) are evaluated for following parameters by the Question Paper Approval Committee:
  - i. Difficulty level & allocation of marks
  - ii. Mapping of question with Course Outcomes and cognitive domain
  - iii. Technical, grammatical & typographical errors
  - iv. Use of standard & approved abbreviations; clarity in diagrams, flow charts etc if any.
- A teacher must submit the printed question paper sets with model answer (for theory course) duly signed in prescribed format to the HOD (Question Paper Approval Committee) for evaluation within time specified.

a) Elucidate in brief recommendations of the Drugs Enquiry Committee (DEC).

(Correct answer carries 3 M)

Ans: The Drugs Enquiry Committee (DEC), also known as the Chopra Committee (established in 1930), was formed to examine and make recommendations for regulating the pharmaceutical industry in India. Its recommendations laid the groundwork for pharmaceutical legislation in the country.

Here are the key recommendations of the DEC:

Establishment of a Central Regulatory Authority: The DEC recommended creating a central authority to oversee the regulation of pharmaceuticals, which later contributed to the establishment of the Central Drugs Standard Control Organization (CDSCO).

Formation of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act: The DEC's findings influenced the formation of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940, which regulates the import, manufacture, distribution, and sale of drugs and cosmetics to ensure their safety, efficacy, and quality.

Licensing System: The committee recommended a licensing system to regulate drug manufacturing and distribution. This would ensure that only qualified individuals could handle medicines, aiming to prevent the misuse of drugs and protect public health.

Quality Control Measures: The DEC emphasized the need for strict quality control of drugs and recommended measures to eliminate substandard and spurious drugs from the market. This included establishing drug testing laboratories.

Training and Qualifications: It recommended that pharmacists and other personnel involved in the drug industry should have proper training and qualifications to maintain standards in the handling and dispensing of medicines.

Drug Classification: The committee suggested categorizing drugs into different schedules based on their therapeutic use, toxicity, and potential for abuse. This classification became the basis for the schedules in the Drugs and Cosmetics Act.

Prof. (Dr.) Mahesh G. Saralaya

 (D. Pharm, B. Pharm, M. Pharm)

1. Supremacy of law

Supremacy of law means that the law has authority over all people, including those who administer the law. Dicey believes that a man should only be punished for a specific violation of the law, and not for anything else. The person cannot be punished by the Government solely on its own authority, but only in accordance with established law.

2. Equality before law

It means all people must be treated equally under the law. It ensures that everyone is treated equally before the law. It prohibits discrimination on various grounds, treats everyone as equal in public employment. Also, it abolishes untouchability and titles.

3. Predominance of Legal Spirit

The spirit of justice is referred to as the legal spirit. For the effective implementation of rules of laws there should be impartial and independent judicial authority.

According to Dicey, such authority will be court. This concept advocates the principle that law should be based on justice and interpreted without discriminations.

4. Principle of justice

The principle of justice obliges us to equitably distribute benefits, risks, costs, and resources. The following rules are supported by the principle of justice:

1. To each person an equal share
2. To each person according to need
3. To each person according to effort
4. To each person according to contribution
5. To each person according to merit.

5. Principle of Liberty

According to John Stuart Mill every person has right to exercise his power in the community and act as per his will to prevent harm to others. An earlier equivalent was stated in France's Declaration of the Rights of Man and of the Citizen.

PROBLEMS IDENTIFIED

- The infrastructure must have some development considering the building.

CONCLUSION AND RECOMMENDATIONS

- Industrial training at Ajit Laboratories, Miraj provided a valuable opportunity to bridge the gap between academic learning and industrial application.
- I gained insight into pharmaceutical production, quality control, and packaging of various dosage forms including tablets, capsules, syrups, and ointments.
- The training emphasized the importance of discipline, time management, and teamwork in achieving high production standards.
- This internship helped me understand how crucial GMP compliance and proper documentation (SOPs, BMRs, etc.) are in the pharma industry.
- I recommend extending the duration of such training programs, as a longer period would allow students to work more independently and understand processes in-depth.
- Overall, the experience was enriching and has given me confidence and direction for future career development in the pharmaceutical sector.
